

Design factors for a site with loud noise source on the north side

Frequently the ideal house orientation is not possible if there is a significant source of noise on the north side. Careful design can minimise the disturbance caused by the noise, while still allowing sun into the house.

© BRANZ 2007