

In summer during the day the thermal mass is cool in the morning and absorbs heat during the day helping to cool the interior.

In summer during the night the house is well ventilated to carry away heat given out by the thermal mass.

Thermal mass in summer