

Design factors for a south-sloping site with loud noise source on the north side
Where there is noise on the north side, careful design is required to minimise the disturbance caused by the noise while still allowing sun into the house.

© BRANZ 2007